DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-8, 10, 16-19, and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wise et al (H72) in view of Cioffe (5,449,423), Weber (5,620,691), and Bell (4,570,540).

Wise discloses a substitute for black powder that comprises phenolphthalein, sulfur, and potassium nitrate (see claims).

Cioffe teaches that it is known to use a mixture of oxidizers including potassium nitrate and potassium perchlorate of 35-69.5 % and of size 1-20 microns (col. 4 and 5) in a composition that is a substitute for black powder.

Weber teaches the use of PVA a vinyl acetate polymer in a composition that is a substitute for black powder and includes phenolphthalein and potassium nitrate.

Bell teaches that it is known to remove sulfur from a composition that is a substitute for black powder in order to reduce hazard properties relative to black powder (col. 2, lines 25-40).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a mixture of oxidizers as taught by Cioffe since Cioffe suggests that mixtures of oxidizers are useful in a composition that is a substitute for black powder and also to use the binder as taught by Weber with the composition of Wise, since Weber teaches that it is a known binder to be used in a composition that is a substitute for black powder. The moisture uptake is an inherent property of the taught binder. As to limitations which are considered to be inherent in a reference, note the case law of In re Ludke, 169 USPQ 563; In re Swinehart, 169 USPQ 226, In re Fitzgerald, 205 USPQ 594; In re Best et al, 195 USPQ 430; and In re Brown, 173 USPQ 685, 688. It is also obvious to remove sulfur from a black powder substitute since Bell teaches that it is known to do so in order to reduce hazard properties relative to black powder.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, it is clearly obvious to use a mixture of oxidizers as taught by Cioffe since Cioffe suggests that mixtures of oxidizers are useful in a composition that is a substitute for black powder and also to use the binder as taught by Weber with the composition of Wise, since Weber teaches that it is a known binder to be used in a composition that is a substitute for black powder.

In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986). Note that Wise discloses the composition with only three components whereas the teaching references are relied upon to substitute well-known alternative ingredients.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
